Padlock Bill To Be Strictly Enforced

Every Mayor and Board of Selectmen is receiving letters from the Town Protective Committee of the Massachusetts Civic League which was instrumental in passing the Padlock Law in 1928. The letter states that the law having passed the test of the Supreme Court and the experience with it under District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell and the State Police in the Brick-bottom district in Somerville having shown its work ability, the time has now come to use it broadcast throughout the State.

This law is the new weapon that our modern day needs against the roadhouse of bad intent and the immoral hotel. Conditions of recreation formerly near home and easily controlled by the mother are now fifty miles away down some state road. The local authorities alone can keep this distant recreation clean and the State Padlock Law is one weapon.

It is known that in one city alone there are over fifty places eligible for the law, that is, that have had three raids and three convictions in three years.

The Town Protective committee calls on all citizens and officials to apply the Law now without fear or favor to the end that certain bad conditions in our State may be made clean for youth.

Raymond Berard Drowns Trying to Save Girl

Raymond Berard, 21, lost his life by drowning in the Connecticut river near the plant of the Griswoldville Mfg. company Sunday afternoon, when he sank into the deep water and apparently did not rise again. Miss Beatrice Croteau, with the aid of her sister, Helen Croteau, reached safety and although Berard's body was re- covered soon afterwards all efforts to resuscitate him proved in vain.

The accident happened about two o'clock as Beatrice Croteau and her sister, Helen, accompanied by their dog, were bathing in the river. Ber- ard who could not swim, sat on the rocks near the water and watched the bathers. Beatrice called to the dog to come to her and the dog plunged off the rocks and swimming to the girl attempted to rest his paws on her shoulders. This caused her to lose her balance and she fell over into the water crying out as she went under.

Helen, who is a good swimmer, and Berard, both jumped into the water to save the girl, but Berard sank al- most immediately and did not come to the surface again. In the mean- time, Helen had reached her sister and managed to bring her to the edge of the water safely. Their cries attracted the attention of several boys, who ran for assistance and Frank Putala and Dennis Lonergan re- sponded who began diving for the body. Putala located the body after diving several times. Dr. Pelletier from St. Ann's church and burial was and Dr. Charron worked over the body in St. Ann's cemetery.

for some time but their efforts were futile.

Berard was employed as a meter reader for the Greenfield Electric Light and Power company for some time. Besides his parents, Mr. and Joseph Berard of L street, he is sur- vived by three brothers, Eugene, Francis and Richard; two sisters, Beatrice and Richard. The funeral was held Wednesday morning at 8:30 from St. Ann's church and burial was in St. Ann's cemetery.

TOWNS DO NOT GROW BY AGE

Towns are not like trees. They don't grow: they may build up or even down, as the case may be. The point is that age or years have absolutely nothing to do with it. Northfield is old enough to have grown as big as most of the biggest cities in this U. S. A. if the mere passing of the years would do the trick.

No, a town grows or stands still just as the people of the town wish. It seems like a remarkable fact that most of the towns that are known as live and enterprising are not so because of any special favoring by nature or chance.

Towns progress because there was at one time a number of people in them who wanted them to be progressive enough to join together and work for the possible things that made them good towns to live and labor in and for.

UNTIL NORTHFIELD MAKES SOME WAY OF KEEPING A SUFFICIENT NUMBER OF ITS BOYS AND GIRLS AT WORK IN NORTHFIELD TO GET ENOUGH GOING TO RETAIN THE SERVICES OF MORE AND MORE OF ITS YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN IN NORTHFIELD... THIS MARVELOUS LITTLE TOWN CAN NEVER GROW... NO MATTER HOW OLD A TOWN IT GETS TO BE.

LILIACEA ALLIUM CEPA

At last science has elevated the onion (the first vegetable mentioned in Holy Writ) to its proper position among the wonders of the world. We are informed that the onion, Liliacea allium cepa, to give its proper title, throws off ultra-violet rays. Now how is that for high? The exact effect of the rays upon the human system is not specified as yet, but it undoubtedly is beneficial. And whether you get a backflow of these friendly rays from the breath of a sweet-heart who has just partaken of a Liliacea allium cepa sandwich, is not specified but we are hopeful. That these rays are intense is evident from the fact that most cook-books now recommend automobile goggles when peeling or otherwise fondling the Liliacea in its wild untamed state. Science should now give thought to garlic, peppers and sour kraut. They ought to throw off some kind of rays or something, too.

REAL FARM RELIEF WOULD ACTUALLY RELIEVE THE FARMERS

Farm Relief is a distinctly front page article these days and has been a fairly live subject now for several years past. And yet the farmers have received no special relief as yet. We rather imagine that when a method of farm relief is finally worked out it will be entirely different from any proposed by politicians.

The difference between any real farm relief program and that proposed by politicians is that the real farm relief is designed to bring a larger measure of prosperity to farmers while the politicians farm relief is intended to bring in a larger number of votes.

Personally, we continue strong for the application of the Export Debiture Plan in some form or other although we do not regard it as the final panacea. It seems to us that any form of farm relief that attempts to guarantee a price and at the same time permit unlimited production, is economically unsound and any system based on these premises is foredoomed to be a failure.

YOU CAN MONKEY ALL YOU LIKE WITH THE GREAT LAWS OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND BUT THEY WILL ALWAYS GET YOU IN THE LONG LAST... AND NOT ALWAYS SO VERY LONG, AT THAT. WHAT?

AIR-MINDEDNESS

As Old Man Fashion says, we sure are getting air-minded. The air is busier these days than the ground, what with flying planes, dirigibles, radio broadcasting, sun-tanning, and all the rest of it.

"Everybody wants to get the air and air their troubles and blow off a little hot air over trifles they would not have wasted a thought on in the days when men were men and women were glad of it. And now it is stated that women's hats are being fashioned to expose both ears and at least one eye. And knees are being exposed whether they need it or not. When I was a boy we used to talk about 'airy nothings'. We just talked about them but I never understood what 'airy nothings' actually were. Now I know. I see them in the clothes that folks wear, and not only on the bathing beaches either. But, bless you; there's absolutely nothing wrong about it. Simply means that both us and our clothes are getting air-minded, too."

Household Repairs

There are not many housewives who can afford to throw aside broken articles of china and glassware unless it is impossible to mend them, and it is a good plan to have a mending day and mend all the broken articles at one time. The best cement is made of plaster of Paris and a thick solution of gum arabic. Make a paste and apply to the edges with a brush, then carefully unite the broken pieces. Another good cement is made with the white of an egg and flour. Spread the paste on the broken edges, then fasten in position until dry. Small holes in tinware may be mended with putty. Work it in smooth with a knife and leave it to dry thoroughly, and another good cement for mending door knobs lamp tops and knife handles is melted alum, and in mending all such articles it is well to tie them together with a string until perfectly dry. When making paste for wall paper try adding one teaspoonful of borax to each quart of water and you will find that it will not mould or become sour as is often the case when borax is not used. Many tear their sheets down the middle when they have worn thin there, and sew the selvage edge together and make a narrow hem on torn edges; but few know they can do the same with their tablecloths, placing a long narrow centerpiece down the center of the table to conceal the seam. Copper can be easily made to look like new by wetting a coarse cloth in hot water, soaping it well and sprinkling powdered borax over the surface and then rubbing the copper ware well with this cloth. Ten cents worth of blacking bought at the hardware store will furnish all the material needed for half a dozen shiny stoves. It should be applied to the iron, then rubbed with a brush or coarse woolen cloth.

society, 66 Newbury St., Boston. You may win the first prize of $25, offered to the owner or occupant of the premises having the largest colony in the state. A second prize of $10 is offered for the second best colony. Prizes awarded October 15, 1929.

Even if your colony is not a large one the society will be thankful for information concerning it. Colonies must be undisturbed and subject to verification by the committee on prizes. Count the nests actually occupied.

The eave or cliff swallow, one of our most valuable insectivorous birds, seem to be a victim of indifference and neglect. It is without harmful habits, purely beneficial, and failure to insure it suitable nesting sites is doubtless the main reason for its alarming disappearance as a nesting bird within this state. It is of almost nation-wide distribution and common occurrence north, south and west of our state. Provision of narrow strips under the eaves of barns to support nests and insurance of a convenient supply of mud for their composition (preferably with clay admixture for strength) may bring the birds back to us as summer residents.

Just Try These Tests!

Two strands of cord exactly the same length. One is Goodyear SUPERTWIST, the other usual standard cord. Tension is applied by these machines.

Snap! the standard cord breaks. SUPERTWIST remains intact.

Let's try it again with fresh strands—same length. Tension is exerted, then relaxed. SUPERTWIST springs back taut like a rubber band. The other cord sags—no elasticity—it's dead.

Goodyear Tires are made of SUPERTWIST. Supertwist gives and recovers to road shocks, while ordinary cords react as you have seen.

SUPERTWIST is another exclusive feature of Goodyear Tires.

May we make these tests for you and show you why you should INSIST on Goodyears?

Athol

ATHOL TO HAVE A G-B THEATER VERY SHORTLY

Athol is to have a modern theater in the same class as the other theaters operated in New England by the G B Theaters Corporation. Mr. Nathan E. Goldstein, president of the G B Theaters Corp. closed negotiations on Monday with Charles Cooke for the land on Main street, where the Gray Store is now located and the lot in the rear, which is 90 x 175 feet.

Mr. Goldstein said today that the new theater in Athol would be the last word in ultra-modern playhouses. There will be between twelve hundred and fourteen hundred seats of the most comfortable type. The walls will be specially treated for acoustic properties so that the talking and singing pictures to be presented will be heard to the best advantage possible. The projection machines will be of the newest type and all equipment pertaining to the presentation of big singing and talking features will be the most modern and perfected that Western Electric Engineers can devise.

The G B Teaters Corp. of which Mr. Nathan E. Goldstein is president and Samuel Goldstein, treasurer, has its main office in Springfield, Mass. They operate the Broadway and State Theaters in Springfield, the Victory and Strand Theaters in Holyoke, the Calvin and Plaza in Northampton, the Elms Theatre in Chicopee, the Garden in Greenfield, the Strand in Westfield, Palace and Colonial Theaters in Pittsfield, Casino, Ware, the Strand, Palmer, the Regent in Worcester, and others. There will be several more theaters added to this chain within the next twelve months.

Somebody said to us the other day, "Say Skinny, isn't it funny the way the family necessities always just equal the income?"
"Funny?" Say, brother it's positively pathetic. To us it's another one of life's inexplicable mysteries."

Lake Pleasant

The parking of the autos on the nights when the dances are held is becoming quite a problem. For the past three Saturday evenings the attendance at the dances has steadily increased and the lines of automobiles have extended through Turner street into Massasoit street as well as on Denton and Adams streets. The three former are all narrow streets and if autos are parked on both sides all traffic is blocked, but signs of "Parking this side only" have been posted and the motorists have cordially co-operated with Secretary Blinn in heeding the signs and keeping the way clear for traffic.

Manager Lawrence P. Bennett has arrived and with a corps of assistants is getting the Lake Pleasant Inn ready for the formal opening June 30.
The seats are being built at the ends of the Rutter Memorial Bridge and the new electric light fixtures will be installed this week. Four of the Bixby cottages have already been rented and three are occupied: Rev.
L. C. Manchester and family in the "Cozy Cot", Mrs. N. M. Marshall and daughter in the "Woodbury", Mr. H.
Johnson and family of Greenfield in the "Sunset" and Mrs. Anna Traufeld and family of New York will open the "Spruces" next week.

Earl Gullford has been reappointed
as special policeman for the grounds.
The Misses DeWolf and Ripley of Montague have been engaged for table work at the Lake Pleasant Inn.
The Goodnow orchestra was minus its cornetist at the dance Saturday evening, he having become the proud father of a bouncing boy at three o'- clock in the afternoon. The camp extends congratulations.

COMMUNICATIONS

A June Night

To the Editor:

Inky are the shadows under the pines, but beyond there is a drench of moonshine, the breeze is soft; all around is the charm and mystery of a June night, while on guard are the mighty pines, below in the valley, the river winding in a silver thread, ever moving in its journey to the sea.

"His garments stir the waters and they live." "Lord what is man that Thou art mindful of him?"
Sunshine, a new day, with the touch of the Master Painter in the sky, mountain range on range, blue with a haze, while o'er their summits wing troops of fleecy clouds.

Let me do my work each day
Quietly, after the Master's way.
Let me walk humbly with all,
Lest watching me, another fall.
And may this ever be my prayer,
For others, in this world of care,
That I may never judge another.
For God alone knows, my brother.

SHOULD CAPITAL PUNISHMENT BE ABOLISHED?

Agitation which is under way in various states having for its object
the abolition of capital punishment, and which in several instances has crystallized into the formation of active organizations that are behind repeal bills introduced into state legislatures, is said to spring from various causes.

Usually it is based upon the broad general principle that the state has not the right to take the life of its citizens, even though they be guilty of murder. Other proponents of repeal laws hold that capital punishment has failed of its purpose as a deterrent of murder and has a degrading effect on the public.

Seldom, if ever, does a sentimental regard for convicted murderers in individual instances play a part in shaping these opinions, but it is noteworthy that the sympathies of theatre audiences throughout the country have gone out to James Dyke, leading character in "The Vallant," Fox Movietone all-dialog production now showing at the Garden Theatre in Greenfield.

As portrayed by Paul Muni, leading man of distinction, Dyke makes an invariable appeal to every heart, though he is a confessed murderer facing electrocution, through his high-minded determination to shield
his mother and sister from disgrace by concealing his identity. Seldom have more moving scenes been depicted and heard than those between Muni and Marguerite Churchill, who enacts the role of the convict's young sister, as he staunchly denies knowing her.

"The Vallant," adapted by Tom Barry and John Hunter Booth, from the play by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass, was directed by William K. Howard and in the supporting cast are such notable players of stage and screen as John Mack Brown, DeWitt Jennings, Richard
Carlyle, Henry Kolker, Edith Yorke, Cliff Dempsey, George Pearce and Don Terry.

OUR POET'S CORNER

A TREE

Growing in the forest green, there was a little tree,
And he was not as happy as little trees should be.
Said he, "I'm sure I'll do no good Or useful be as all tree should."

It grew and grew for many a day
Until a woodsman passed that way.
He said, "This tree's so good, I'll cut it down
And sell the lumber in the town."

The tree was very happy now,
And shook with pleasure in each bough.
And it became a house so warm,
To make a shelter from the storm.
(Written by Marion Spaulding)
Age 12. Grade 6 Pine St. School

"Gus," said Bill, as he caught up with him on the way back to camp,
"are all the rest of the boys out of the woods yet?"
"Yes," said Gus.
"All six of them?"
"Yes, all six of them."
"And they're all safe?"
"Yep," answered Gus, "they're all safe."
"Then," said Bill, his chest swelling
"I've shot a deer."

Kitchen Parties Latest Novelty For Entertaining Guests In Home

NEW YORK—"Kitchen parties" are the latest rage at the 400's social gatherings with both hosts and guests in the role of hired help toiling over the gas range with pots and skillets, tinkering in the butler's pantry and mixing with toothsome tidbits. With aprons covering expensive gowns and afternoon coats, the hosts and guests of both sexes make the kitchen instead of the drawing room their
"whoopie" haunt.

"Guests at a kitchen party must know their groceries," said a society matron here, "for they will be called upon to perform culinary stunts in preparing salads, toasting cheese and crackers, mixing a rarebit, cooking a lobster a la Newburg, frying small sausages, slicing cold meats, making tea or assembling fudge short cake."

males will find more favor with the ladies than a shirk who dabbles in distraction. A woman who can con-jure up a recherche heart of palm salad rates more social prestige than an expert highball concoctor or a
"shark" at bridge.

"Tea is the preferred beverage at these parties, because of its delightful and refreshing qualities. The recipe for a cup of tea that will boost one's social stock is quite simple, but the directions must be implicitly followed. Bring fresh cold water to a boil. Use a heaping teaspoon of tea for every cup. Put the tea in an earthenware pot which has been heated by rinsing with boiling water.
Pour in fresh boiling water and let the tea steep four minutes. Then you will have a beverage that will insure you a preferred rating in the social regiment."

Mount Hermon

Mrs. Ellen S. Billings, librarian of the South Deerfield library, was honored by the members of the Western Massachusetts Library Club Tuesday at the annual meeting of that organization when she was elected second vice-president of the club.

The complete list of officers elected were: Harold T. Dougherty of the Westfield Athenium, president; Mrs. Florence Shaw, children's librarian of the Springfield City library, first vice-president; Mrs. Ellen S. Billings of Tilton library, South Deerfield, second vice-president; Miss Mildred White, Memorial Square library, Springfield, treasurer; Miss Edith L. Little, city library assistant, Springfield, secretary. All were reelected except Miss Little who succeeded Miss Anne M. Davies of the Holyoke library.

Mr. Dougherty presided. Principal Henry F. Cutler of Mt. Hermon school, greeted the visitors and extended all the privileges of the school.

At 12 o'clock the librarians attended the service in the chapel and heard the Mount Hermon boys sing. Lunch was served in West hall at 12:30 o'clock. Prof. H. H. Morse, head of the history department of Mt. Hermon school, spoke on "A Lafayette Pilgrimage in France." An exposition of the "Bookmobile", a traveling library, was given by Charles A. Brockman. An inspection of Mt. Hermon school and a tea, served by the wives of the professors at Mt. Hermon school, followed.

Northfield

Rev. and Mrs. Howard A. M. Briggs expect to be in Northfield for a part of the summer and early autumn, but owing to the uncertain condition of Mr. Briggs' health there will be no guests at Quinneh Tuk this season.

The boys and girls who have applied have been arranged for at other New England camps. The older people have been referred to local places in Northfield.

Mr. Briggs was discharged from the hospital about three weeks ago and expects to return, only for incidental treatment. While this care is necessary both Mr. and Mrs. Briggs remain near Boston.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I had not seen Van Deventer for twenty years—in fact since he had taken his degree and left college. As an undergraduate he had been well known for various reasons. He was a good student; he was a winning athlete, and he had so interested himself in college affairs as to be pretty generally known by everybody. I had heard from him indirectly during the years since he had been out, but, as I say, I had never before met him face to face.

"It's wonderful to get back to the old place," he said as he shook hands with me. "Twenty years is a long time to be away, but seeing the building and the campus and a lot of the old fellows puts new life into me. It's a sort of recreation to be back again."

"How are you getting on?" I asked him.

"I've been more prosperous than I ever had any reason to hope," he said modestly. "I've had mother and my sister to look after and we're more than comfortable. If I did not work any more we could be financially comfortable for life. I'm happy over having made something of my education, happy that I have succeeded in the profession I took up, but I've had more satisfaction in having been able to do something worth while in the community in which I live than in anything else I have been able to accomplish."

Then he told me in a simple modest way of his co-operation in civic and religious enterprises, and the work he had done in the schools, in the political affairs of his town and especially in the boys' organization in which he had always had the keenest interest. It was a more than interesting work and I told him so. He had sensed the real purpose and meaning of free education.

I often ask young fellows who come in to talk to me just why they are getting an education, and I am struck with the almost universal reply that they want to do something that will improve their own personal condition. It is self-improvement that they were after and self-advantage; they give little thought to what their education is going to help them to do for the community in which they are to live.

The purpose of free education is not that the individuals who take advantage of it may have, as one father said to me once of his son, an easier time in life, a softer berth, and larger income. Those of us who have been educated at the expense of the community or of the state in which we live for that very reason are under obligations to assume greater responsibilities than others who have not had our opportunities or our training. We are not entitled to an easier time but must, as Van Deventer was doing, give more constant and efficient service to the community than other people.

GIRL SCOUT LEADER AT CHARLEMONT SAVES DROWNING BOY

Jumping into the water at the Tea street swimming pool while fully clad, Mrs. Christine Turner, girl scout leader, saved Wellington Nadeau, 14, from drowning Friday afternoon, after the boy was sinking for the third time in water which was beyond his depth. Several classmates including the Avery boys, John Rowell, Beulah Phillips and others also attempted to save young Nadeau but found him too heavy for them to handle and had it not been for the prompt action of Mrs. Turner, the boy might have lost his life. The bravery and skill displayed by Mrs. Turner in her rescue work is receiving the highest commendation from all the Charlemont people.

Selected Recipes

Ice cream is always appreciated as a dessert, but when the weather is hot it is particularly desirable. A light fruit souffle a fluff, a Bavarian cream or some other light dessert is also fitting in hot weather—when heavy foods should be reduced and the lighter, quickly-digested foods featured. Here are two delicious junket dishes—economical too:

Velvety Banan Ice Cream

2 junket tablets
2 tablespoons cold water
3 cups milk
1 cup sugar
1 cup mashed banana
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ pint cream

Crush junket tablets and dissolve in cold water. Mix sugar and milk and add to junket. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add dissolved junket tablets; pour at once into freezer can. Let stand in a warm place until firm; add mashed banana, lemon juice and cream, whipped until stiff. Pack in ice and salt and freeze.

Fruit Souffle

1 package vanilla junket
1 pint milk
White 1 egg
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup fresh berries

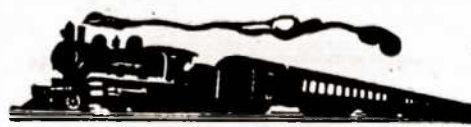

Make junket according to directions on packages. Place the berries in a bowl and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Add the unbeaten egg white, and beat with a wooden spoon or silver fork, slowly, until the berries are broken, then rapidly, until stiff—about 30 minutes—then place in ice box. Pile lightly on junket when serving.

Jesus Answers the Lawyer's Question

Matthew 22:36, 37, 39, 40. Master, which is the great commandment in the law? 37. Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. 38. This is the first and great commandment. 39. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. 40. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

A wholesaler had had a lot of trouble in getting a certain retail client to pay his bills—not to pay them promptly, but to pay them at all. Finally, losing patience, he wrote the merchant in question a rather threatening letter and in reply received the following communication:

"Dear Sir—What do you mean by sending me a letter like the one you wrote on the tenth inst.? I know how to run my business.
"Every month I place all my bills in a basket and then figure out how much money I have to pay on my accounts. Next I blindfold my bookkeeper and have her draw as many bills out of the basket as I have money to pay for. If you don't like my way of doing things I won't even put your bill in the basket."

Three Conference At Hotel Northfield This Week

Three religious conferences are held at the Northfield Hotel this week. On Tuesday the Commission on Evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America assembled with Bishop A. R. Clippinger of Dayton, Ohio, as chairman.

Among the speakers for the session starting Friday night are Rev. Raymond Calkins of Cambridge on the Holy Spirit in the Modern World, Miss Bertha Conde, author on Spiritual Adventuring; Bishop William F. Anderson, Dr. Jesse M. Bader of Indianapolis, Dr. Charles L. Goodell. There are about 40 ministers and bishops in this conference.

The conference of the Seminary on Worship also convened on Tuesday until noon of Thursday. About 20 men are in this group with Dr. F. L. Fagley, who is executive secretary of the commission on Evangelism and Devotional Life which is connected with the National Council of Congregational Churches in charge.

On Friday the National Council of Y. M. C. A. convenes for five days. This is a retreat which will include about 16 men and women with David Porter of New York, who is connected with Y. M. C. A. work as chairman.

Echos From the Young Men's Conference

"This is a spiritually wistful generation," declared C. Leslie Glenn, national student secretary of the Protestant Episcopal church at the Northfield Student Conference.

"The whoopee wave is waning because it was not the answer to the restlessness of the younger generation. It is impossible to read the daily papers and not understand the world's hunger without being hard in the heart and soft in the head."

"The answer today is the old one of personal loyalty to a person."

In his address Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy, noted author and traveler, challenged the college men to test themselves and find out whether or not they are really learning to think, or whether they are allowing themselves simply to follow in the footsteps of the older generation.
